Johnnie James were at the home of Mrs. Thomas Baker near Wilsonburg Sunday.

Several from this place were at New Hope Sunday.

this writing.

Mr. Tom Oiler had the misfortune to lose a barn, several hundred feet of lumber, a buggy, wagon, some plows and some fence by fire last Friday. How the fire originated is not known.

They had a hard fight to save the dwelling from being reduced to ashes. This is not the first time Mr. Oiler has suffered loss by fire, and we sincerely hope it is his last encounter with the flames.

While in town Saturday the horse driven by Walter Gootley and sister had a sudden attack of colic which resulted in its death a few hours. The horse belonged to Thomas A. Grundy and was very valuable.

Hillsboro.

Miss Ethie Shields, one of Hillsboro's most popular young ladies, has returned from a week's visit with her sister at Taisham.

Mrs. Royalty, who has been suffering for some time with consumption at the home of her daughter Mrs. John Armstrong, turned to his home here after nois.

will arrive here Saturday and remain the guest of Miss Aggie

Dean for a week.

party at Miss Artie Sutton's in Willsburg Saturday night.

Nan Scott were in Springfield

Monday shopping.

will meet on Tcm McElroy's place just above the Hillsboro church Saturday afternoon to organize a baseball team.

maker and wife, and Mr. Robert Shewmaker and wife, of Fenwick, and Mr. Davis Settles and buggy from McClure & Wells of your town, for $60.

ington, Maud and Eva Inman and Fattie Settles will be the guests of Miss Bertha Miller Sunday.

Mr. Lee Settles bought a horse from Mr. Byron Parks, price private.

Miss Agnes Hines is very sick at her home near Litsy.

Mr. Erastus Trent has returned from the World's Fair.

Mr. James Thompson is ill at the home of his mother, Mrs.

Alice Thompson, in the Grove neighborhood.

Jensonton

Anderson Holdeman sold his entire flock of sheep, consisting of 19 ewes (with wool on) and 25 lambs, for $135 to Mr. Charlie Coyle.

Mr. Bluford Lankford, a well known citizen of this place, died at his home last Friday. Buried at Pleasant Hill Sunday evening funeral services conducted by Rev. R. L. Purdon. Mr. Lankford will be missed by those who know him. He lingered and suffered for several days with Bright's disease. We do not know Mr. Lankford's age but would take him to be about 65 years of age. We extend to the bereaved family our sympathy.

Born to the wife of A. W. Arnold last week a girl.

It becomes my painful duty to record the death of my uncle, W.

H. Harmon, (better known as "Uncle Wig"), who quietly fell asleep on the night of May 10, about 9 o'clock, at his home here.

The deceased was born Oct. 31,

1825, being at his death 78 years, 6 months and 9 days old. He was sick about four months, but there was no painful suffering, only a peaceful falling to sleep.

All was done that loving hands could do to restore him to health but the Lord, the Righteous Judge, thought it best to suffer his earthly tabernacle to perish.

He leaves a wife and seven children, three brothers and one sister and a host of relatives and friends to mourn his death. But let us find consolation in the precious promise of the Risen Lord, for he knoweth our frame and remembereth that we are dust.

We laid him in the quiet cemetery at Union to await the resurrection morn. Funeral services conducted by Rev. Hobbs, of Mackville Methodist church.

Uncle Wig joined the Methodists when about 17 years of age therefore he had been a member of that church for over 61 years.

He had told some that he would die on the 10th of May several days before he died, and he passed away on that date.

Pulliam.

Once more we will take our pen in hand to add a few words and swell the columns of the NEWS-LEADER. We have seen nothing from here for quite awhile. It should be the duty of every correspondent to try to make our county paper better and more interesting to all.

There is no doubt but what a lot of good advice and good work could be done through the News-

LEADER.

Prof. J. N. Gordon is conducting a singing school at Tatham at present. He has quite a full school. Prof. Gordon is well up on music and a great good is being done in that line.

Mr. C. C. Foster wishes to give thanks to the ladies of this county. He got married with out any trouble. He said he wished he had advertised sooner.

He is now advising all the widowers to put their ads in the NEWS-LEADER.

The Macabees at this place will begin to build their hall at once.

Killed By A Train.

Telegrams were received by relatives here on last Sunday announcing that John P. Knott had been killed at Carlinville, Ill.
Instructions were immediately telegraphed to have the remains sent here for burial, and on Monday evening the body arrived. Mr. John Buckman, formerly of this county, but who has been living at Auburn, Ill., for several years, accompanied the remains home, and from him the particulars of the death were learned. It seems that the deceased had boarded a through passenger train as it slowed up at the station at Carlinville, with the intention of riding to Auburn.
He had swung on to the rear end of the sleeper and was leaning out from the platform when he was struck by a freight car on a sidetrack and thrown to the ground, where he lay for sometime in death before his body was discovered. John Knott was well-known here, having been born and reared in this county. He was a son of Mrs.
Janie Willett, of this place, and a grandson of the late John Simms, one of the county's most prominent citizens. He married Miss Sue Kinkead, of Elizabethtown, and she and three children survive. Mr. Knott left here nearly a year ago and had been in Illinois and other points in the West.

The remains were buried in Catholic cemetery Tuesday morning, after High Requiem Mass at St. Dominic's church.

Mr. Wilson Green Dead.

Mr. Wilson Green, one of the wealthiest and oldest citizens of the county, died at his home about four miles East of Springfield, on last Thursday morning of apoplexy and old age. The funeral took place at Bethlehem church on Friday afternoon, Rev. R. L. Purdon preaching the funeral. Burial in Bethlehem cemetery.

Mr. Wilson Green was born in Madison county, Ky., October 24, 1816, and when quite young moved with his parents to this county. Mr. Green was first married to Miss Robertson, of Boyle county, and of that marriage Mrs. Thompson, who lives near Lexington, is a daughter.

Mr. Green's second marriage was to Miss Malissa Purdon, of this county, who survives him.

Mr. Green had been a very successful man of business, and during his long and active life had made a great deal of money and leaves a comfortable fortune.

He was a successful farmer and stock raiser, and his fine farm in this county, with its old mansion, is a typical Kentucky home of the higher class.

The deceased was a man of modest demeanor, who attended strictly to his own affairs, but always enjoyed the respect and confidence of his neighbors.

In his business dealings with his fellow-man he was observed the utmost integrity, and his word was ever good as his bond. Besides his lands in this county and personal property, Mr. Green is said to have had large holdings of real estate in the State of Texas. The deceased was a brother of Mr. Sidney Green, of this place, Dr.
Green, of Louisville, and Mrs.
Armstrong, of Danville.

A Noble Woman Gone.

In the death of Mrs. Sallie Grundy who breathed her last at her home in the Western part of the county there passed away a noble character and a woman of broed mind and strong conviction.
For many years Mrs. Grundy has presided as mistress over the fine old mansion which stands in the center of several hundred acres of as fertile soil as Washington county affords and her open-hearted hospitality had endeared her to a host of friends.
Since the death of her husband, the late Samuel Grundy about 16 years ago she has lived at the old home and has personally managed the affairs of the farm with skill and success. While living practically alone except for the employees of the place Mrs. Grundy was by no means a recluse. She delighted in the company of friends and especially of young folks and her home was the scene of many pleasant gatherings. Visitors were always sure of a hearty welcome and hospitable entertainment to the old Grundy home which to this day still bears the stamp of those old anti bellum days in its quaint and elegant old furniture and air of luxury and refinement.

The deceased was a woman of strong mind and Christian character and was ever ready for a charitable deed. She was childless and the only near relative to survive her is Mrs. Goodloe, of Shelbyville, who is a niece.

Mrs. Grundy, it is understood, left a will which will probably be offered for probate at the Springfield county court on next Monday, and until then nothing will be known of what disposition has been made of her valuable estate.

After a short funeral service at the home, conducted by Dr.
T. D. Latimer, of the Springfield Presbyterian church, the remains were taken to Shelby-ville to be laid beside those of her husband. The gentlemen who acted as pallbearers and went to Shelbyville with the remains were: Messrs. John W. Lewis, W. A. Waters, John A. Tackler, Sam Anderson, H. M. Grundy and Dr. G. M. Shaunty.

The Wedding Bells.

By J. A. SHADER.

(Dedicated to the thirty-eighth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Shader which occurred Sunday, May 15, 1904.)

Our wedding day! ah! so it is—The happiest of the year!
This day, twice nineteen years ago,
Our hearts united were.

'Twas in the lovely month of May When all things looked so bright and gay!

Ah, yes! to church we early hied And ere shed the sun his light The morning blushed, as blushed my bride.

In springtime full delight—When mated birds begin to build;
And many a love is sweetly trilled; Thus, in the tresting time of love,
Our hearts united were.

And, humbly, to the Throne above Ascended fervent prayer That blessings, like the dew on flowers, Might fall in fortune's darkest hours!

Am I as happy now as then?
God bless thee, memory wells With rapture on the moments when I heard the wedding bells!

Do I not hear them yet, my dear?
Still ringing—ringing—far but near!

We've traveled far our span of life We have had in and together We've felt the sunshine, faced the storm.

Encountered varying weather;
And ever-borne on high, forthwith,
The day of honor, virtue, truth!

Though moving in an humble sphere We claim a just respect, Disclaiming all that's false and True merit springs from sterling Not from the accident of birth.

We've seen our children round us grow Like saplings shooting slender;
The parent stem o'er-topping so In staleness, 'tho' tender.

As ministering angels till the end.

Lord Avelbury, better known as Sir John Lubbock, was a naturalist even as a schoolboy at Eton. In his day there, however, the instructors cared for nothing except the classics and were ignorant of natural science. In his autobiography Lord Avelbury says:
"At that time Eton boys, especially if they were quick at writing verses and skating by boat, had much more insurance than they have now. I devoted a good deal of time to natural history and geology in spite of the remonstrances of my tutor, who thought that people cannot arrest the flight of time, yet they are often asked to stop a minute."

Lord Avelbury, better known as Sir John Lubbock, was a naturalist even
as a schoolboy at Eton. In his day
there, however, the instructors cared
were ignorant of natural science. In
his autobiography Lord Avelbury says:
"At that time Eton boys, especially if they were quick at writing verses and
skating by boat, had much more insurance than they have now. I devoted
and geology in spite of the remon-
people cannot arrest the flight of
a minute."
